Microsoft has released Windows XP with Service Pack 3 integrated or slipstreamed as full bootable setup installation CD in ISO image format to MSDN or TechNet Plus subscribers. As usual, the ISO images for many versions of Windows XP with SP3 CD or DVD ISO images have been leaked to Internet for free download. Here's a collection of unmodified, untouched and original copy of official integrated Windows XP with SP3 slipstreamed ISO images as if when the CD images are downloaded from MSDN or TechNet Plus servers.

Almost all versions of integrated Windows XP with SP3 full install CD or DVD image in ISO formats are published. For example, Windows XP Home and Professional Edition, and both versions for retail and volume license (VL or VOL) customers, where retail version now does not require a product key to install, while VL version requires a volume licensing product key (VLK) to install. There are almost K, N, and KN releases, which is meant to customers in countries which enforce antitrust regulations. All integrated builds for Windows XP SP3 is of 32-bit (x86) versions.

Note: If you're looking for standalone update package that will install Windows XP SP3 on your existing XP SP2 or SP1 system, check out the Windows XP SP3 direct download links from Microsoft Download Center or direct download links for Windows XP SP3 from WU server.

@Bobo

What is your problem, who cares if someone use legal or pirated copy of windows?

Many people only need installation because they don't have or lost discs but have original keys and stickers.

Earlier i use pirated copy of Windows because i don't have OEM disc to use original key from sticker on my notebook.

Rudy, and everyone else who asks.

Windows is not free. Buy a license key. You have a 30 grace period before you need to activate.

Want free Windows? Go to some BS warez site and download a hacked copy with tons of spam, viruses, and/or key loggers.
